Nichola: final year Design student, specialising in Illustration.

"It was never a question of if I would pick Art, it was more, 'when can I start?'"

"Art not only taught me so many skills I still use today, it gave you a tangible thing at the end of it. You were creating in Art, you could see it and at the end of the year you could take it home and be proud of it and I think that was such an integral part of my high school experience.

Tom: Architect
Art allowed me to be creative, whilst also developing my analytical skills, resilience and attention to detail – all of which would serve me well
in life beyond school and would have been beneficial to any career path.

When it came time to leave school, I continued my education at Strathclyde University in Glasgow, where I would complete a degree in Architectural Studies. A few years later, I finally achieved my dream of becoming an Architect. The skills instilled in me throughout my time at high school were invaluable to this process and so many of these skills were those developed in the Art department.

Megan: BA Hons Fashion Design for Industry

"I've been working in the fashion industry for the past 6 years for a lot of well known high street and online retailers, designing outerwear, active wear and leisure wear."

"Art taught me patience and resilience, creative problem solving and to appreciate different cultures and the world around us."

"I've found Art to be an endlessly rewarding subject. It's something that I still reap the benefits of today, whether I'm putting my painting skills to use – decorating or in my career as a designer. Art is at the centre of everything that I do."
